In today's competitive job market, employers say that attitude is the most important factor in their hiring process. Yet many of today's job-seekers have difficulty maintaining the kind of attitude that goes over well in the workplace. Now more than ever, job-seekers must be prepared to be competitive not only in order to gain a job, but also as a prerequisite for keeping a job. In addition to a positive professional attitude, today's employers demand a great deal of productivity from their employees—high-quality work, speedy task-juggling and focused effort are all crucial for a company to be profitable. It is essential that job-seekers realize that it is their attitude in the long run which will affect their performance in all aspects of their professional life. The What's Your Attitude?: Getting in the Mood to Work course will help you establish a positive attitude.
